We are delighted to announce the seventh annual Leeds conference on liaison psychiatry services for older people, a two-day event for anyone interested in better health services for older people. Designed to deliver specialist mental health assessment and care in the general hospital, and also to provide ongoing training and education in order to improve the knowledge and skills of general hospital colleagues dealing with common problems such as depression, dementia and delirium. Development of these services should also be of interest to commissioners and providers of both physical and mental health care.

The conference programme is influenced by feedback from previous events and from our special interest group in liaison psychiatry for older people. Many sessions will be interactive, and there will be plenty of time for questions and discussion. There will also be the opportunity to present and view posters describing research projects or service developments relevant to the theme of the conference.

Speakers include: Professor Sube Banerjee, Professor of Mental Health and Ageing, Institute Of Psychiatry, London; Professor June Andrews, Director, The Dementia Services Development Centre, University of Stirling; Dr Dave Anderson, Associate Medical Director and Consultant Psychiatrist, Mersey Care NHS Trust; Dr Peter Bowie, Consultant and Clinical Director in Old Age Psychiatry, Sheffield Care NHS Trust; Dr John Holmes, Senior Lecturer in Liaison Psychiatry of Old Age, University of Leeds.

The full conference programme is available on our website www.andrewsimscentre.nhs.uk

Conference Planning Committee Chair: Dr John Holmes, Senior Lecturer in Liaison Psychiatry of Old Age, University of Leeds.
