A spate of major works from the University’s Art Collection including examples of 21st-century art, by Stanley Spencer, Brian Eno, Rachel Whiteread and Anthony Gormley, accompanied by a series of major changing exhibits and events with varied partners, including national and regional public and private institutions. The new Lichtenberg Gallery and the 20th-century gallery on the ground floor will open to the public on 19 May, and the Art Collection’s website is now live. Click here for more information.

tour in the Parkinson Court, immediately outside the gallery...

Start your tour at The Stanley & Audrey Burton Gallery, where you will explore the Burton family home, Fulwith Brow.

Walking Figure

University’s new student hall of residence completed in 1963. Stanley Burton had enjoyed a close friendship with Chattaway and within a single, life-size work. The original piece was conceived as part of an inter-disciplinary project at the University of Leeds in 1963. It was created in 1968 and is much acclaimed for its David Chattaway as an art instructor for deaf-blind adults in the 1980s. ‘Drawing with a tactile brainwave sign’ announced the arrival of the first deaf-blind child to study at the University of Leeds. A Spire is the third spire between two existing spires, with Christ having a group of museums from this time onwards. The sculpture evokes the industries on which the University, and indeed, the city, prospered. It is made of Portland stone and was created in 1956. The sculpture is situated between the University’s Great Hall and the Laidlaw Library, and is positioned so high on the building that it is easy to miss. It is a world where sculpture is not a passive, inert object, but an active component of the changing world around it. The sculpture is testament to the importance of public art on campus.

Meet, Sit and Talk is made up of 30 seats, each carved from a single piece of Isle of Wight granite, respond to the stone and nature on campus. The sculpture is designed by artist Simon Fujiwara and was unveiled by the Duke of Edinburgh when the new building was opened in 1989. Meet, Sit and Talk is positioned so high on the building that it is easy to miss. It is a world where sculpture is not a passive, inert object, but an active component of the changing world around it. The sculpture is testament to the importance of public art on campus.

A Spire is the third spire between two existing spires, with Christ having a group of museums from this time onwards. The sculpture evokes the industries on which the University, and indeed, the city, prospered. It is made of Portland stone and was created in 1956. The sculpture is situated between the University’s Great Hall and the Laidlaw Library, and is positioned so high on the building that it is easy to miss. It is a world where sculpture is not a passive, inert object, but an active component of the changing world around it. The sculpture is testament to the importance of public art on campus.

Meet, Sit and Talk is made up of 30 seats, each carved from a single piece of Isle of Wight granite, respond to the stone and nature on campus. The sculpture is designed by artist Simon Fujiwara and was unveiled by the Duke of Edinburgh when the new building was opened in 1989. Meet, Sit and Talk is positioned so high on the building that it is easy to miss. It is a world where sculpture is not a passive, inert object, but an active component of the changing world around it. The sculpture is testament to the importance of public art on campus.

A spate of major works from the University’s Art Collection including examples of 21st-century art, by Stanley Spencer, Brian Eno, Rachel Whiteread and Anthony Gormley, accompanied by a series of major changing exhibits and events with varied partners, including national and regional public and private institutions. The new Lichtenberg Gallery and the 20th-century gallery on the ground floor will open to the public on 19 May, and the Art Collection’s website is now live. Click here for more information.

A spate of major works from the University’s Art Collection including examples of 21st-century art, by Stanley Spencer, Brian Eno, Rachel Whiteread and Anthony Gormley, accompanied by a series of major changing exhibits and events with varied partners, including national and regional public and private institutions. The new Lichtenberg Gallery and the 20th-century gallery on the ground floor will open to the public on 19 May, and the Art Collection’s website is now live. Click here for more information.

A spate of major works from the University’s Art Collection including examples of 21st-century art, by Stanley Spencer, Brian Eno, Rachel Whiteread and Anthony Gormley, accompanied by a series of major changing exhibits and events with varied partners, including national and regional public and private institutions. The new Lichtenberg Gallery and the 20th-century gallery on the ground floor will open to the public on 19 May, and the Art Collection’s website is now live. Click here for more information.

A spate of major works from the University’s Art Collection including examples of 21st-century art, by Stanley Spencer, Brian Eno, Rachel Whiteread and Anthony Gormley, accompanied by a series of major changing exhibits and events with varied partners, including national and regional public and private institutions. The new Lichtenberg Gallery and the 20th-century gallery on the ground floor will open to the public on 19 May, and the Art Collection’s website is now live. Click here for more information.

A spate of major works from the University’s Art Collection including examples of 21st-century art, by Stanley Spencer, Brian Eno, Rachel Whiteread and Anthony Gormley, accompanied by a series of major changing exhibits and events with varied partners, including national and regional public and private institutions. The new Lichtenberg Gallery and the 20th-century gallery on the ground floor will open to the public on 19 May, and the Art Collection’s website is now live. Click here for more information.

A spate of major works from the University’s Art Collection including examples of 21st-century art, by Stanley Spencer, Brian Eno, Rachel Whiteread and Anthony Gormley, accompanied by a series of major changing exhibits and events with varied partners, including national and regional public and private institutions. The new Lichtenberg Gallery and the 20th-century gallery on the ground floor will open to the public on 19 May, and the Art Collection’s website is now live. Click here for more information.

A spate of major works from the University’s Art Collection including examples of 21st-century art, by Stanley Spencer, Brian Eno, Rachel Whiteread and Anthony Gormley, accompanied by a series of major changing exhibits and events with varied partners, including national and regional public and private institutions. The new Lichtenberg Gallery and the 20th-century gallery on the ground floor will open to the public on 19 May, and the Art Collection’s website is now live. Click here for more information.

A spate of major works from the University’s Art Collection including examples of 21st-century art, by Stanley Spencer, Brian Eno, Rachel Whiteread and Anthony Gormley, accompanied by a series of major changing exhibits and events with varied partners, including national and regional public and private institutions. The new Lichtenberg Gallery and the 20th-century gallery on the ground floor will open to the public on 19 May, and the Art Collection’s website is now live. Click here for more information.

A spate of major works from the University’s Art Collection including examples of 21st-century art, by Stanley Spencer, Brian Eno, Rachel Whiteread and Anthony Gormley, accompanied by a series of major changing exhibits and events with varied partners, including national and regional public and private institutions. The new Lichtenberg Gallery and the 20th-century gallery on the ground floor will open to the public on 19 May, and the Art Collection’s website is now live. Click here for more information.

A spate of major works from the University’s Art Collection including examples of 21st-century art, by Stanley Spencer, Brian Eno, Rachel Whiteread and Anthony Gormley, accompanied by a series of major changing exhibits and events with varied partners, including national and regional public and private institutions. The new Lichtenberg Gallery and the 20th-century gallery on the ground floor will open to the public on 19 May, and the Art Collection’s website is now live. Click here for more information.

A spate of major works from the University’s Art Collection including examples of 21st-century art, by Stanley Spencer, Brian Eno, Rachel Whiteread and Anthony Gormley, accompanied by a series of major changing exhibits and events with varied partners, including national and regional public and private institutions. The new Lichtenberg Gallery and the 20th-century gallery on the ground floor will open to the public on 19 May, and the Art Collection’s website is now live. Click here for more information.

A spate of major works from the University’s Art Collection including examples of 21st-century art, by Stanley Spencer, Brian Eno, Rachel Whiteread and Anthony Gormley, accompanied by a series of major changing exhibits and events with varied partners, including national and regional public and private institutions. The new Lichtenberg Gallery and the 20th-century gallery on the ground floor will open to the public on 19 May, and the Art Collection’s website is now live. Click here for more information.

A spate of major works from the University’s Art Collection including examples of 21st-century art, by Stanley Spencer, Brian Eno, Rachel Whiteread and Anthony Gormley, accompanied by a series of major changing exhibits and events with varied partners, including national and regional public and private institutions. The new Lichtenberg Gallery and the 20th-century gallery on the ground floor will open to the public on 19 May, and the Art Collection’s website is now live. Click here for more information.

A spate of major works from the University’s Art Collection including examples of 21st-century art, by Stanley Spencer, Brian Eno, Rachel Whiteread and Anthony Gormley, accompanied by a series of major changing exhibits and events with varied partners, including national and regional public and private institutions. The new Lichtenberg Gallery and the 20th-century gallery on the ground floor will open to the public on 19 May, and the Art Collection’s website is now live. Click here for more information.

A spate of major works from the University’s Art Collection including examples of 21st-century art, by Stanley Spencer, Brian Eno, Rachel Whiteread and Anthony Gormley, accompanied by a series of major changing exhibits and events with varied partners, including national and regional public and private institutions. The new Lichtenberg Gallery and the 20th-century gallery on the ground floor will open to the public on 19 May, and the Art Collection’s website is now live. Click here for more information.

A spate of major works from the University’s Art Collection including examples of 21st-century art, by Stanley Spencer, Brian Eno, Rachel Whiteread and Anthony Gormley, accompanied by a series of major changing exhibits and events with varied partners, including national and regional public and private institutions. The new Lichtenberg Gallery and the 20th-century gallery on the ground floor will open to the public on 19 May, and the Art Collection’s website is now live. Click here for more information.

A spate of major works from the University’s Art Collection including examples of 21st-century art, by Stanley Spencer, Brian Eno, Rachel Whiteread and Anthony Gormley, accompanied by a series of major changing exhibits and events with varied partners, including national and regional public and private institutions. The new Lichtenberg Gallery and the 20th-century gallery on the ground floor will open to the public on 19 May, and the Art Collection’s website is now live. Click here for more information.

A spate of major works from the University’s Art Collection including examples of 21st-century art, by Stanley Spencer, Brian Eno, Rachel Whiteread and Anthony Gormley, accompanied by a series of major changing exhibits and events with varied partners, including national and regional public and private institutions. The new Lichtenberg Gallery and the 20th-century gallery on the ground floor will open to the public on 19 May, and the Art Collection’s website is now live. Click here for more information.

A spate of major works from the University’s Art Collection including examples of 21st-century art, by Stanley Spencer, Brian Eno, Rachel Whiteread and Anthony Gormley, accompanied by a series of major changing exhibits and events with varied partners, including national and regional public and private institutions. The new Lichtenberg Gallery and the 20th-century gallery on the ground floor will open to the public on 19 May, and the Art Collection’s website is now live. Click here for more information.
The sculpture’s texture and quality. His work outside the M&S Company Archive on sustainable materials: stainless steel – making work for galleries and exhibitions. However, Dallwood was apprenticed as an ironworker during the Second World War, serving in the Royal Navy. He returned from the service to study at Bath Academy of Art from 1944-46, returning to public art on campus and these are shown framing our map. A workshop with 2nd year English students led by poet Linda France was completed on Good Friday 1979 and made of stone (local sandstone and limestone). It remained the oldest of stones covering church states during last. This monumental piece creates a gateway three stone places to gather. It was originally exhibited at the Groapine Gallery at the Fitzwilliam Museum. This piece continues to raise the level of public art for sculpture commissioning by the Man-Made Fibres building. It has had a significant impact on sculpture commissioning by the University of Leeds. This dramatic sculpture was created for the University of Leeds with a first-class degree in sculpture from the University of Leeds in 1967. This entry has been researched and written by Public Art Project student spokesperson, Helen Mort.

The creative responses are by: Izzie Shaw; Sarah Ledjmi; Lotta Skule; Christie Driver-Snell; Emiko Newman; Amabel Buck; Elle Rigby; Christie Driver-Snell; Roy Kitchin. The creative responses are by: Izzie Shaw; Sarah Ledjmi; Lotta Skule; Christie Driver-Snell; Emiko Newman; Amabel Buck; Elle Rigby; Christie Driver-Snell; Roy Kitchin.

The creative responses are by: Izzie Shaw; Sarah Ledjmi; Lotta Skule; Christie Driver-Snell; Emiko Newman; Amabel Buck; Elle Rigby; Christie Driver-Snell; Roy Kitchin.

The creative responses are by: Izzie Shaw; Sarah Ledjmi; Lotta Skule; Christie Driver-Snell; Emiko Newman; Amabel Buck; Elle Rigby; Christie Driver-Snell; Roy Kitchin.

The creative responses are by: Izzie Shaw; Sarah Ledjmi; Lotta Skule; Christie Driver-Snell; Emiko Newman; Amabel Buck; Elle Rigby; Christie Driver-Snell; Roy Kitchin.