Dear

Freedom of Information Response (Our Ref: K/21/060)

Thank you for your Freedom of Information (FOI) request dated 30 January 2021, reference K/21/060.

Your request read:

“I am seeking information on the number of students who have dropped out from the University of Leeds in the 2020-2021 academic year due to coronavirus.

If possible, I would like to know the following information:

1. How many students dropped out of their studies after accepting a place for the academic year 2020-2021 (whether prior to starting or during the year)?

2. How many students deferred their studies after accepting a place for the academic year 2020-2021 (whether prior to starting or during the year)?

3. How many of those who dropped out or deferred cited the COVID-19 pandemic as their reasoning?

4. How many students dropped out of their studies after accepting a place for the academic year 2019-2020 (whether prior to starting or during the year)?

5. How many students deferred their studies after accepting a place for the academic year 2019-2020 (whether prior to starting or during the year)?”

The University of Leeds holds some of this information. For your convenience we have responded to each of your questions in turn below.

1. How many students dropped out of their studies after accepting a place for the academic year 2020-2021 (whether prior to starting or during the year)?

We are withholding the number of students who have withdrawn from study so far in 2020/21 under section 22 of the Freedom of Information Act. Section 22 sets out that information is exempt from disclosure if it is intended for future publication, either by the public authority themselves, or by another organisation.

The Higher Education Statistics Authority (HESA) is the Designated Data Body (DDB) for higher education in England as defined by the Higher Education and Research Act 2017 (HERA). This means that HESA is responsible for the publication of a range of information and statistics about university students, including non-continuation statistics. This information is published in January each year. Information in relation to the 2020/21 academic year will be published in January 2022. While this does not preclude individual providers from publishing information, to do so would result in unnecessary repeated effort on the part of the teams and staff members who compile our submissions to HESA. We also consider that an early release would undermine HESA in their DDB role.

Section 22 is a qualified exemption, which means that we are required to consider whether the public interest in the information outweighs the public interest in withholding it at this time. We have set out our considerations below.

We appreciate that there is an interest in student numbers, particularly given the ongoing covid-19 pandemic. However, we also consider that this information may be valuable to other provider organisations; allowing them to compare their own admissions and non-continuation statistics to ours, and in turn make some basic assumptions regarding our student-based income. This in turn may affect our own commercial sustainability in the higher education marketplace, since such information may be useful to competitor institutions and could inform their own policies regarding how to deal with changing student numbers. If potential students were attracted to other institutions as a result, then the university would suffer financially. This would not be in the public interest. There is also a strong public interest in preserving the role of HESA as the DDB.

We are therefore satisfied that the public interest is in favour of withholding the information under section 22.

2. How many students deferred their studies after accepting a place for the academic year 2020-2021 (whether prior to starting or during the year)?

3. How many of those who dropped out or deferred cited the COVID-19 pandemic as their reasoning?

We do not hold this information. Although we record the number of students who have withdrawn or suspended their studies for health reasons, we do not break this information down further to show the specific health concern which prompted the withdrawal or suspension.

4. How many students dropped out of their studies after accepting a place for the academic year 2019-2020 (whether prior to starting or during the year)?
